Network Marketing gives Jade the freedom to earn what she desires.

Five years ago Jade Docherty joined the team at Arbonne International to benefit long term from the flexibility and extra income it could give her.

Arbonne International is an ultra-premium brand of health, wellness and personal care products that started 39 years ago. Arbonne are a highly regarded member of the Direct Selling Association that supports companies to distribute products directly from a company to a consultant, to a customer over the traditional retail route. Jade said with Arbonne's high performing products and price point, the products sell themselves.

She explains you receive income based on recommendation, helping others start a social marketing business, and you will only get paid for the effort and time put into both aspects of the business model.

Jade feels the main challenge of being a business owner in social marketing is helping people to understand the business concept for what it is vs illegal pyramid selling. Jade chose to work with Arbonne due to their ethics, residual income and that her income will be willed to her family when she passes.

She loves that the company promotes building strong relationships for longevity over persuading people to sign up for a quick buck. Jade said it's so hard to find authentic companies with transparency and a strong culture and community, but she believes she found this in Arbonne.

Jade's long-term goal is to continue to build a solid team of business partners and clients. Her passion is to help others build networks from nothing and support current business owners develop multiple income streams. Jade is always looking to get to know people that share her desire to have more out of life and simply build relationships with like minded people.

Jade is very passionate about helping others and she 100% believes that the government should make it mandatory to teach entrepreneurship in schools/colleges and universities. Jade works a lot with young people in her day job and she sees so many of them that do not conform to the current schooling system. Watching too many of them start to fail and then become scared of education.

She feels teaching entrepreneurship to our young people would encourage them to flourish, think outside the box and take other avenues into achieving job satisfaction and financial stability. Equally Jade has also seen first hand the financial support social marketing can bring to people whilst studying their main passion.

Jade feels that TI Accountancy has massively helped her to run her business. She said they are always on the end of the phone and are happy to answer any questions, even ones that she could have googled herself. Jade feels she gets a more understandable and reassured answer from the TI Accountancy team and feels she is an important and a valued customer.

Jade said she recommends TI Accountancy to all new business partners and her network of business owners to receive support in self-assessment tax returns due to their friendliness, support and reciprocity of her business when it was appropriate.
